Shall we ever step on n?
Further Topics in Probability
School of Mathematics, University of Bristol

A random walker starts from position 0 and only moves forward, making a number of steps $1 \ldots 6$ each time as instructed by independent rolls of a fair die. The question is the generating function and the asymptotics of the probability that position n is ever stepped on.